LIMIT TO HOURS OF FEMALE EMPLOYMENT WILL BE FELT HERE

BUSINESS HOUSES AND FACTO-RIES WILL BE AFFECTED TO VARYING DEGREES.

TO ARRANGE SCHEDULE

Many Places Will Re-arrange Hours of Employment—Problem of Saturday Night—Factory Production Hurt.

Local stores and factories where female labor is employed will be affected by the new law passed during the recent session of the state legislature, limiting the time of employment to fifty-five hours per week. The effect on the various industries and stores in Janesville will be varied, as some places will feel the new regulation more than others and will find it necessary to revise their entire schedule of working hours.

Most of the employers of girls and women have already been considering the result of the new law, and many of them have fixed a new time schedule ready for immediate use. Factories will be hit the worst in Janesville, and where ten hours has been the time for a day's work, this will have to be reduced to nine hours.

Cripple Production.
It is stated by the proprietors of these factories that the output will be materially limited by the new arrangement. In fact it may mean that some orders will have to be turned down for want of time to produce the goods required. This will be especially true at times when rush orders are sent in. At present it is customary to ask the girls if they are willing to stay and work extra time in order to get out a certain lot of goods. It is never the case that they are compelled to do so, but they are generally glad to work the overtime for the added wages. This will be impossible under the law as the fifty-five hour limit would be overreached.

There will not be many, if any, hands added to the number already employed at the factories. The present system will not be changed enough to warrant the addition of new hands, and several of the factories are equipped for more help than they now have. At one plant where Saturday afternoons have been given in the summer time the new law will necessitate working on that day for nine hours as on the others, in order to keep up the output of the factory and supply the demand.

Employer's Standpoint.
As far as an expression from the employers affected could be ascertained, it was the opinion that in many instances the new law was not entirely satisfactory. Previous announcement regarding it stated that it would mean an eight hour day, which caused not a little unfavorable remark among factory hands, especially. While the nine hour day may be more acceptable to many, it will necessarily cut down the wages paid to piece-workers. It is estimated that in some instances this will result in a deduction of from two to four dollars per week in the pay of some of the more skilled workers.

Among the more ambitious girls this will be regarded with dissatisfaction as many of them are working on a close margin as it is, with one or more persons depending on their income. It is the general opinion that the law will not work to any degree toward the raising of the pay rolls, rather tending toward reduction.

Neither is it stated that when the longer time off is given it is not always used as it should be and that many of the employees take an undue amount of recreation which will not increase their powers of production. One expression was made to the effect that when it was the general cry that women are the equals of men in the business and industrial world, such enactments tended to the denial of this contention. It was, however, the general opinion that female labor should not be overworked, and that regulation was necessary, although perhaps not to the extent which the present law has gone.

Help at Stores.
Among the store clerks, it will be necessary to readjust the hours to a slight extent. The greatest difficulty here will be to secure a schedule for keeping open evenings, as the law reads that a woman may not be employed more than ten hours in any one day. This will only permit the opening of stores with the women clerks on the one night in the week and extra help will be necessary during the holidays or when the stores are open more than the one night.

Nine hours a day, beginning at eight o'clock in the morning and with an hour off at noon, will be the regular time as before. On Saturdays the girls will have to be at work at nine o'clock and with an hour and fifteen minutes off for each meal, can work until half past nine in the evening, or ten hours a day. Variations to this arrangement may be made, as in the case of one employer who has made out a schedule which he has posted, requiring the girls to be on hand Saturdays at half past nine and allowing one hour for each meal.

Other Employments.
Local restaurants will be naturally affected by the provisions as they are running practically under the time limit at present. Nine hours a day is the average time of employment of the girls in these places as they have from two to three hours off in the afternoon. Minor changes can be made without difficulty.

Some expression has been made to the effect that hotels should come under the same regulations as restaurants regarding this law, as the former are not mentioned in the text of the enactment. In many cases it is stated that hotel chefs and waitresses have much longer hours than cafe and restaurant help and if regulation is necessary it should not show prejudice between two similar employments.

Confectionery stores and ice cream parlors will also feel the effects of the measure and it will undoubtedly result in the employment of extra hands. Tobacco warehouses, too, will feel the effects of the new law, and will have to re-arrange their schedule to nine hours. Formerly the time of labor for the sorters was ten hours, which would not be within the limits of the law. It is very probable that this will necessitate the employment of additional hands during the busy season.

OUTING NOTES AND NEWS OF THE CAMPS ALONG ROCK RIVER

Jots of Interest to Rock River Resort-ers—River Has Been Low Causing Minor Accidents to Motor Boats.

One of this season's new boats that have appeared on the river is a 20-footer owned and built by F. Gardiner. It is powered with a 6 h. p. double-cylinder Gray engine.

Without encountering any difficulties of a serious nature, in bringing an 18-ft. launch the entire distance from Johnson's Creek by water, Bert Bennett accomplished what is probably the longest water trip that has been undertaken by local enthusiasts in some time. The boat is an 18-footer, powered with a 4 h. p. Gray motor, with 5 ft. beam and a draught of about 22 inches. Mr. Bennett was accompanied on the trip by Frank Chase, it being expected that shallow water or other obstacles which might be encountered would require the services of both men. Sand bars and low water made traveling somewhat tedious at different points along the course and one or two dams had to be contended with, but good weather favored the crew during the day's cruise and they were well pleased with the experience.

Norman Miliken is the owner of an 18-ft. semi-torpedo stern launch equipped with a 4-cycle motor rated at about 14 h. p. The boat was launched last week.

R. R. Lay has purchased the launch formerly owned by Ira Miller.

The Annapolis club enjoyed one of their quarterly outings upriver last Thursday evening.

"White House," the house-boat owned by George Barlings, is again anchored above Burr's Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilcox, who spent two weeks at the E. S. Williams cottage, have returned to the city.

Tom Reilly has purchased the launch formerly owned by L. C. Brewer. The boat was brought here from Lake Kegonsa and is now numbered with the local watercraft.

Many accidents of minor importance have taken place in the past few days, and the following launches have been the unfortunate victims. Robert Hoar has had engine trouble, caused by the burning out of a bearing, one of the oil leads failing to respond. "Wash" Harrigan declares his boat ran into a net-line the other evening, which became entangled in his propeller and shaft, the snikers on the line breaking the wheel and otherwise damaging the bottom of the boat. John Anthes bent one of the blades of his propeller the other evening, the object he struck being nothing more or less than a "boater." Thursday afternoon Robert Lockett struck a large stone about ten miles up the river, damaging the propeller, and George S. Parker struck a stump near the upper ice house a few days since. The river is quite low at this time and the utmost care should be exercised at certain places in order to avoid trouble.

John Horn and wife spent their vacation at the Wright cottage.

A 7 h. p. cylinder motor has been purchased by Messrs. Antles and Bennett. Favored by an ideal location and exceptionally pretty grounds, this is one of the most desirable summer camps on Rock river.

ATTENTION CALLED TO OLD ORDINANCE

Trees About the City Must Be Trimmed Ten Feet From the Ground Along Walls and Highways.

Street Commissioner Wilkins is letting no grass grow under his feet these days and asks that property-owners' attention be called to the ordinance passed March 2, 1908, which regulates the trimming of trees along the walks and highways of the city to the height of ten feet above the walk or street. That all may be certain of the text of this ordinance the following is the excerpt particularly referred to.

"The owner or occupant of each lot or parcel of land within the city of Janesville, shall cause the ornamental and shade trees in the street in front of their respective lots or parcels of land to be trimmed so that the head or foliage of said trees shall not reach below a line drawn from a point ten feet above the ground at the trunk of the tree to a point eighteen feet above the ground at the center of the street or highway."

The enforcement of this ordinance will mean that there will be a lot of tree-trimming about the city and the appearance of the city will be much improved. Mr. Wilkins has the backing of the council in seeing the ordinances are enforced and his notification should be heeded by the individual property owners.

Canadian Girl Weds in London.
London, July 19.—Of much interest in Anglo-Canadian social circles was the wedding today of Miss Nora McSloy and Captain Vierville Champlain de Crespien. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. McSloy of St. Catharines, Ontario. Captain de Crespien, who distinguished himself in the first world war, is descended from a noble Norman family which fought in the first Crusade and were "champions" to the Dukes of Normandy and Brittany.

NERVES ARE ON EDGE, STOMACH OUT OF ORDER

Happiness Does Not Come With This Condition—Tona Vita Brings Back Health.

Half sick, tired all the time, no energy or ambition, with your nerves on edge and your stomach out of order, how can you expect to get any happiness out of life when in such a miserable state?

You can't, and you won't, until you find relief from the debilitated condition that is sapping your vitality and robbing you of your strength.

Physicians know that half the population in the large cities of this country are today afflicted with nervous debility caused by the wear and tear of modern life.

A preparation has been used by European physicians to combat this nervous condition with remarkable success. A similar preparation "Tona Vita" was introduced in this country a few months ago and is making a marvelous record here. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of fatigued, debilitated men and women. You owe it to your family, you owe it to yourself to let this wonderful new tonic build you up. There is no other medicine like it on earth; one dose will convince any one of this. If "Tona Vita" doesn't do more for you than all the other medicines you have ever taken, if it doesn't make you happier and healthier and better in every way, what you pay for it will be returned to you by the Smith Pharmacy.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the assistant remedy, is another great medicine. It is a splendid family laxative, containing the medicinal properties of rhubarb—nature's own laxative. It will not injure the most delicate constitution and should be used for children above everything else. It is pleasant to the taste.

The Smith Pharmacy has the Janesville agency for "Tona Vita" and Lee's Rhubarb Laxative.

ers and theatrical managers of the metropolis, James O. Williamson, known as the richest man connected with the theatrical profession in any part of the world, sailed for Europe today to complete his fifteenth tour of the world. Some of the old-time players remember when Mr. Williamson was a "military man" in Wallack's company in this city. Now he is known as the Napoleon of Australian managers and his fortune is estimated in eight figures. He is in virtual control of the leading playhouses in nearly all of the large Australian cities and is also a member of a syndicate that manages several of the London theatres.

TOURISTS' IMPORTS.

With the crusade against dishonest importers and evaders of law which Secretary MacVeagh has waged during the past three years all honest Americans sympathize. The striking gains that have come to the federal treasury from rigid and impartial inspection by customs officials have not been overlooked or unappreciated by taxpayers and by citizens who understand the unfortunate effect upon society of law unenforced or enforced partially and with discriminations in favor of the rich or the politically powerful. The taxpayer likes the record of larger receipts because it eases his burden. The citizen favors administrative efficiency and integrity because he knows that it will increase respect for law, and also relieve many subordinate customs officials from equivalent acts forced upon them by men high in office.

Coincident with this stiffening up of the customs inspection service there has been a new reading of the law relative to the amount of goods from abroad which returning Americans may bring in free of duty. It has made considerable trouble for people of limited means. The effort of Uncle Sam to add to the national income by checking the average tourist's purchase of relatively inexpensive gifts for kinsfolk and for friends has not made a fortunate impression upon returning teachers, professional men and women and travelers with moderate incomes.

Consequently, it is not at all surprising that Congressman Woods has introduced a bill, that if it becomes law, will reduce the limit of non-dutiable goods that may be brought in by returning Americans from $100 to $200. For pecuniary as well as esthetic reasons the government may feel that it can afford to be generous in its treatment of the tourist class. Large as the total value of goods brought in from abroad may be, it is a comparatively small sum when put alongside of the gain to domestic producers, through the increase in demand for goods of certain kinds and grades that travel abroad invariably creates. Traveling, after all, is incidental and not the main thing to most Americans who come home from Europe and Asia. They get during the "outing" ideas and ideals that last through life, and that create demands which American manufacturers and traders there, after profit by steadily. It would, therefore, seem unwise to make it difficult for tourists to return home with gifts that cannot fail to educate the permanent home-purchasing constituency.

PRESS COMMENT.

Something More.

Madison Democrat: Every time the clock ticks two dollars drop to the lot of John D. Rockefeller, and yet income taxers are not satisfied.

Whatever it is.

Waterbury Times: Now that the legislature has adjourned the people of the state can view at their leisure the work of that body, good, bad and indifferent.

By One's Company.

Machine Times: Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food champion, may be guilty of irregular methods in getting results, but the people like him for the results he has made.

Out of the Game.

Beloit News: Victor Berger says everybody and himself is playing politics in congress. Yet there is hope that even Victor will learn the game if he stays in Washington long enough.

Seems Inevitable.

Rockford Register Gazette: Surely the world does move on. Chief Justice Clark of North Carolina—perhaps the stronghold of the womanly woman—prophesies that the women of that state will be exercising the full right of suffrage within a few years. And sheltered women are applauding him.

Holding Up Matters.

Evansville Wisconsin: What is to be done with Alaska? It is evident that the policy of preventing its development is not reliable either by the inhabitants of the territory itself or by the consumers who want its coal and other products to come into competition with those of eastern producers. Conservation is becoming recognized as a sham.

Something Wrong.

Chicago Inter Ocean: A dispatch from Rochester, N. Y., says that Theodore Roosevelt has declined an invitation to address the A. A. R. at its annual convention next month. "From now on," says Mr. Roosevelt in his letter, "I wish to avoid making any speech I possibly can avoid." Please, somebody, tell us what's the matter with Roosevelt? He can't be all right.

Complicated.

Cannell Hints Nonpareil: There is some similarity between the positions of the Canadian poet and the insurgents. The poet is opposed by men who think it goes too far and others who think it does not go far enough. The insurgents are hampered for the same reasons. The regulars think they go too far and the democrats think they do not go far enough.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

By WALT MASON.

I ordered some potatoes down at the grocer's store; the price was something awful—I sat me down and swore. The grocer man informs me the price will stay the same, I am a failure.

DISCOURAGING up there; the crop is "round here and everywhere. And so I see I'll have to submit on beans and corn; and this is the grand me—I cannot blame the trade. If I could blame Peep Morgan, and roast old Gutzenghagen, I'd do without potatoes and have a holly time. The crop has been a failure because the weather's dry, and so the Wall Street barons can prove an alibi. Now I must eat the pumpkin and chew the moldy prune, and know the robber tariff, like Wall Street, is immune. No one will pay attention if I should raise a fuss, and so my heart is broken—there's no one I can curse. I've pondered till I'm weary, and no way can I see to charge the "inter shortage to Ironsoul John D. If I could only work it to make John D. the goat, I'd surely run for office and ask you for your vote.

ILLINOIS TWO CENT RATE LAW DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Report Handed to United States District Court in Case of Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis Ry.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—The Illinois two-cent rate law was declared unconstitutional in a report to the United States district court here today submitted by Walter McClelland Allen, master in chancery. The report is based down in the case of the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railroad and applies only to that road, but can be made to apply to any road that can show it is not earning six per cent on its investment in the passenger department.

SPARTA GROUNDS TO REPLACE OHIO CAMP?

La Crosse, July 19.—That the Sparta military reservation will replace Camp Perry, Ohio, as the scene of the national sharpshooters' tournament conducted by the war department, in 1912, is now assured, according to Congressman J. J. Esch of this city.

TO ENFORCE CLEANLINESS IN CANDY FACTORIES

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Milwaukee, July 19.—Drastic measures will be taken against local candy manufacturers in the event the conditions of cleanliness in the factories are not remedied at once, according to a letter sent to certain manufacturers today by Health Commissioner Kraft.

CARNEGIE MEDAL FOR NEENAH YOUNG LADY?

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Noenah, July 19.—Steps will likely be taken to secure a Carnegie medal for Vera Walters of Hartford, Wis. In a rowboat she rescued Ivan Spear of this city when eight miles out in Cedar lake his canoe capsized in foggy water and he started to drown.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SUICIDE IS CONFESSION.

A young man threw himself into the Chicago river. When a policeman pulled him out he said he was driven to the step. In his own words:

"I could not see my way through life."

Poor fool! He had $20 in his pocket, was strong and healthy, and there was no one dependent upon him.

Coward!

Suppose all who cannot see the way through life should jump into the water. What would become of the census?

It is not given to mortals to see the end from the beginning. Who has a map of the life expeditions in which he is engaged? One may have plans, but plans fall down. And often the way grows misty. Sometimes the stars do not shine.

But—

"The forces that are for us are stronger than the forces that are against us! Therefore—"

"The wise man goes on."

He does not go on blindly. He goes by faith rather than by sight. "Faith" sees the glimmer of a star and hears "the rustle of an angel's wing." Faith holds the way—unswerving.

Only cowards turn back.

Because of lack of faith and courage, because of the morbid broodings that fill the mind in the darkness, men and women commit rash acts of self destruction. Is moral courage decreasing?

Life is given to be hazarded. I say it is a gift. And if it is a gift no one has the moral right to throw it away. Ring your gift closely.

If defeats come, let them. Even defeats, if honorable, are a form of glorious victory.

Let us do nobly striving toward the goal. And if sometimes the harness should gall the tender spots—well, the scars are honorable.

Life is to be lived—to be brim. Bravely drink the cup.

Lift high the banner and let us drink to the brave who go upward and onward, upward and onward, though the way be dark and thorny and full of stones.

If there be sweet poison in the cup Providence put it there, not you or I. Drain it down!

And as for Death?

Why, let him come knocking when he wills. He shall not have you—nor me—merely for the asking. Let him knock. He shall not have us until he breaks down the door!

INSANE MAN FOUND IN JANESVILLE YARDS

An Unidentified Man, Evidently Demented, Taken by Sheriff Ransom and Sent to Chicago.

Wandering aimlessly through the South Janesville yards for a few days a demented man was picked up this morning by Sheriff Ransom and brought to the county jail. When he was questioned more closely by the county officials the unfortunate man stated that his home was in Chicago, but he could not give his name, and nothing was found on his person to help in identifying him. Evidently, he has been wandering

An Unidentified Man, Evidently Demented, Taken by Sheriff Ransom and Sent to Chicago.

Wandering aimlessly through the South Janesville yards for a few days a demented man was picked up this morning by Sheriff Ransom and brought to the county jail. Attention was attracted to the stranger this morning when he entered into conversation with employees at the yards and they saw that the man must be out of his right mind. They telephoned at once to the sheriff, who went out in an automobile to take charge of the man. The stranger offered no resistance when Sheriff Ransom brought him to the city.

When he was questioned more closely by the county officials the unfortunate man stated that his home was in Chicago, but he could not give his name, and nothing was found on his person to help in identifying him. Evidently, he has been wandering

FOUL PLAY, MURDER, DEMENTIA AND EVEN SUICIDE SUGGESTED

Mystery Surrounding Disappearance of Carroll Smith of Milton Not Yet Solved.

It is now eight days since Carroll Smith, a prosperous farmer near Milton, left his home to come to Janesville and disappeared as though the earth swallowed him.

Despite the earnest inquiries of friends, relatives, sheriff's office and his attorney, Charles Moore, no trace of the missing man has been discovered.

Leaving his home on the morning of July 11, with some two hundred dollars in his pocket, Smith told his wife he would be back shortly and started on his bicycle for this city. The wheel was later found at the East Side beach bath but no one remembers seeing Smith since he left there.

Foul play, murder, dementia and even suicide are feared by his family who have searched in vain for trace of him.

He was seen twice after leaving home. Once by a neighbor who passed him on the road coming towards town and later when he left his bicycle at the beach bath.

His attorney, Charles Moore, whom it was supposed he came to town to see, is of the opinion that Smith may have become mentally deranged and gone to some other city, advancing the theory of the dual personality.

He cites the case of a Kenosha man, who, becoming mentally deranged, wandered off and was later found working in a factory in a city of Iowa.

Smith was of an eccentric nature in some ways, but extremely scrupulous in his dealings and since his marriage had not remained away from home over night.

He had no worries, as far as can be learned, except the law suit arising out of a charity which was held at his home just after his marriage, when he is alleged to have shot at the crowd and injured a man.

Another cause assigned for the sudden disappearance of the man is that he feared he would be harmed by friends of the man who brought suit against him.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR ARREST OF GREEK

Peter Pappas Charged With Violation of Ordinance Prohibiting Riding Bicycle on Sidewalk.

A warrant was today issued against Peter Pappas, a Greek, owner of two refreshment wagons in the city and part owner of the confectionery store on West Milwaukee street near the corner of Academy, charging him with violating the city ordinance prohibiting persons from riding bicycles on the sidewalk in the city. The complaint was made by Fred Coryell, a teamster residing at 515 North Clinton street. An attempt was made by the Chief of Police Appleby to serve the warrant, but Pappas, who saw the chief approaching, escaped through the rear door of his place. One of his countrymen, however, promised to see that Pappas would appear in court tomorrow morning.

It is alleged that Pappas was riding along the sidewalk on North Clinton street and the three year old son of Coryell was playing in the yard near the walk. The pedal of some other part of the wheel caught the child, it is said, and tossed it about, bruising it severely.

SOCIAL GLASSES PRODUCED SLEEP

Young Farmer Living Near Leyden Drank Too Much With Companions and Was Sound Asleep When Arrested.

Picked up dead drunk by the officers last night, Herman John, a young farmer living between Leyden and this city, was arraigned in municipal court this morning for drunkenness and fined three dollars and costs or $1. He made arrangements to pay the fine, John came to the city yesterday and after imbibing numerous drinks went sound asleep and did not wake up when he was taken in charge by the police and remembered nothing of what had happened to him.

Charles O'Brien of O'Brien, arrested yesterday morning, offered to pay $1 on his fine, take the pledge and send the rest of the money on the fine to the court on Saturday. In consideration of his promise to quit drinking the court accepted the offer and after paying the costs O'Brien left. A fine of $3 and costs was assessed.

Three drinks upset the equilibrium of Thomas Corbitt and he too fell into the clutches of the law. Corbitt came down town yesterday to get relief from a toothache and after going to a dentist's office took the liquor to quicken his work. It did the work all right, but the effects of the remedy cost Corbitt two dollars extra. As it was the man's first offense the court fixed the fine at $1 and costs or $2 and Corbitt arranged to pay it.

Marlin Sterbear, an Austrian farm hand and beet laborer, was the last of the quartette arraigned. Sterbear was given five days flat in jail as he had been up for the same charge, but a short time before. The man was in a filthy condition when brought into the court. He was advised by the court to return to the country at the expiration of the jail term and remain there.

ESCAPED INJURY BY GOOD FORTUNE IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Car Driven by Frank Hayes Crashed Into Viaduct This Side of Milton Junction Late Last Night.

That Frank Hayes, eldest son of Dennis Hayes, and three companions escaped death in the automobile smash-up that wrecked the handsome Marmon car belonging to Mr. Hayes, senior, just this side of Milton Junction, about midnight Tuesday evening, is today a source of congratulation of those who have viewed the wreck of the handsome car heading the wreck of what had happened to him.

Just how the accident occurred is not known beyond the fact that the party of four, Mr. Hayes and three young gentlemen, were returning from an evening spin in the country, and after leaving Milton Junction, coming toward Janesville, struck the stone abutments of a culvert which threw the whole party out of the car and almost completely demolished the machine.

Apparently the lights were not going when the accident occurred, and it was stated at the garage, they had worked badly previously and went out just as the top of the slope near the culvert was approached. The road here is rough and the car evidently left the track of the road proper and went with full force against the stone pier.

The force of the collision threw all four occupants of the machine out over the front, but, beyond bruises they were not seriously hurt and were able to walk back to Janesville, reaching here about three this morning. At the Sykes and Davis garage it was stated the car was not seriously damaged, but persons inspecting it by the roadside were of the opinion it was a bad wreck.

All the spokes in the two front wheels are broken out, the fender badly bent, the left fender torn from the frame, the wind-shield and one lamp broken. It is said the engine was not damaged. With new wheels on the front axle the car was brought to the city this morning under its own power for repairs.

Work on the sewers to be built in this city this season was commenced by a small force of men employed by the Tibbey Bros., of Dubuque, Ia., who have the contract for the job, yesterday. Excavation work was begun yesterday on South Bluff street in Sewer District No. 15. More men will be added to the gang employed by the sewer contractors and the work in the other five districts will start as soon as possible.

Racing Street Bridge.

The crew of the Central States Bridge company which is building the Racine street bridge are at present working on the west abutment of the bridge. Excavations for the abutments on both sides of the river have been completed. The work was held up some by the delay in the arrival of piling, but the work is progressing slowly. Sixteen-foot piling are being driven under the abutment. A pile driver operated by horses is being used to drive the big stakes into the ground but it is expected a steam pile driver will be here in a few days to do the work more quickly.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

SHE IS bright. She is pretty. She is an eminently likable person in many ways, BUT she has one decided "out."

I think it wins her as many enemies as her good qualities bring her friends.

And the "out" is that she is always saying flat things.

Of course you know what I mean by that. For instance, we are discussing the difficulty of getting a man on the trolley cars at rush hours, and she says, "Somehow I always seem to have a seat given me. I don't know why it is. I hope I don't look so old as all that." She attempts to appear most puzzled and ingenious as she says it. The attempt is a complete failure. We all know she thinks the reason is quite obvious.

Again she professes herself most indignant because "people are always staring at me. I think it's perfectly horrid."

Perhaps we foolishly assure her that she can't blame them, and thereby give her an incentive to say more flat things.

Perhaps we are sensible enough to maintain silence. In either case we are inwardly registering a doubt as to the sincerity of her indignation.

I met a most virulent example of this type of girl at an afternoon tea the other day. She was a bride and the tea was given in her honor.

Twice during the afternoon her husband called her up on the telephone. The instrument was in the hall, and by lowering her voice she could have talked without being heard. But that was evidently the last thing she desired, for, instead of lowering her voice, she raised it, and fragments like this floated in to us: "The patient, dear, only one hour longer." "Yes, dear, if you can't wait for me to come home you may come for me." "Well, you can look at my picture, then, darling."

The second time she came away from the phone she announced with a sweet smile, "Isn't he funny? He says he can't wait to see me. He says he's hungry."

Did you ever get anything so cloyingly sweet that the sweetness choked you all up all of a sudden?

Well, that's the way my mind felt after that dose.

Of course everybody says that things once in a while. But why people try to make that once-in-a-while synonymous with seldom or hardly ever.

Also, of course it's hard to tell when you are saying them. But here's a pretty good way to tell. Whenever you catch yourself planning to say something simply because you think it will impress people with your beauty or popularity or some other desirable quality, don't say it. Ten to one they will see right through you and it will sound flat.

Heart and Home Talks

By Barbara Boyd

A Husband and His Conversation.

WHY is it, writes a wife, "that when my husband is out in company, he is a good talker; but when he is home, his conversation is limited to the toughness of the steak, the noise the children make, or the size of the bill. He rarely talks to me in the interesting way he talks to his friends."

This wife is not alone in her complaint. The condition is a familiar one in many homes. If company comes, the husband will turn in and entertain the guests delightfully. He will hold up his end of the conversation, the evening through; or if out among friends, he is by no means the monosyllabic creature that he is when he and his wife are alone together.

Perhaps he is talked out with his wife. They may have thoroughly threshed all the subjects they have in common. Having heard his opinion on a certain subject a dozen times, she can no longer listen with that absorbed face that pleases a man. So he turns to a fresh audience that will express their delight at his views, and vote him a charming talker.

And when she gives utterance to what he already knows by heart, naturally he would rather read the baseball score, and grunt out acquiescence in what she says than vent his opinion for the fifth time.

Probably what this husband and wife need are new interests, something that will really waken each mentally. Gossip is not enough. It may satisfy a woman, but it doesn't in the long run satisfy a man. If there is some subject the husband is particularly interested in the wife might read up on it, so that she can have forceful, intelligent opinions. If there is nothing of this sort to mutually interest them, an occasional book or play that provokes discussion may wake him up to talk as entertainingly in the home as outside of it.

For that matter, the everyday affairs of the home can be the subject of enjoyable conversations, if approached in the right spirit. Small Dick's future and what he ought to do or be, from a study of his actions, is much jollier to talk about than the noise he makes. Human nature as displayed in mads can give rise to uproariously funny conversations.

Making conversation bores, and the wife who tries to force conversation upon her husband will probably not succeed. But if she throws down a gauntlet that wakes him up, and then keeps up her end either by being a good listener or a sparkling opponent, she will find that he will talk as entertainingly to her as to any one. But she cannot expect a man when he comes home tired from business to sit down and talk as if he were at a conversation, and working for the first prize. There is a time to talk, and likewise must there be a good opponent in the game.

WHAT DO YOU DO TO PROVIDE ENTERTAINMENT?

Summer Time and Cool Home Ideas
Either in the City or Country—
Can You Tell About It?

There are so many means of providing entertainment for your guests during the summer months that it would not be hard to make some suggestions that would benefit others.

The idea of giving a party or an entertainment in the hot summer months is always a bug-bear to the average hostess. How to entertain her guests without making them feel bored or uncomfortable from the heat is a problem.

This contest is open to all women readers of the Gazette. Send in your suggestions to the Feature Editor and try for one of the prizes offered. Your articles do not have to be too long but should explain in detail your plans.

Of course, the more novel the idea the better it is. Planes are never out of place but the question is, what to do at a picnic. Launch parties, moonlight rides up and down the river, even hay rides and clam bakes are possibilities now.

Green corn is coming and if you have never had a corn on the cob supper out in the woods beside some stream or lake, or at least at some farmhouse, you have missed something.

your suggestions will be invaluable. Write on one side of the paper only and address to the Feature Editor of the Gazette.

First Prize—Caloric Fireless Cook-stove.

Second Prize—Set of 45 pieces of Flow Blue Dishes.

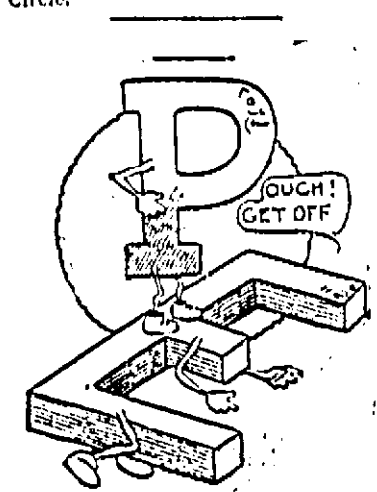

Third Prize—Vacuum Bottle.

Fourth Prize—Sampson Kitchen Scales.

The contest will end August 1st.

DISHES FOR HOT DAYS.

For a most dish that will use the leftovers, you need at the same time make a palatable dish, scalloped veal is good. Mince the cold cooked veal very fine, butter a dish and put a thin layer of veal in the bottom with a sprinkling of onion on top. Then add a layer of fine bread crumbs, dot with butter and chopped parsley, another layer of veal and crumbs, having the buttered crumbs on top. Pour milk into the pan until the mixture seems moist, and bake slowly until well cooked. An inverted pan over the dish will keep in the steam. Remove the pan ten minutes before serving, and let the top brown. Sprinkle with parsley or grated cheese, and serve.

Deviled Chicken.—Make a sauce of salt, pepper, dry mustard, paprika, grated lemon peel, lemon juice, Worcester sauce and a few drops of tobacco sauce. Add a large lump of butter, and when the sauce is very hot some cubes of cold cooked chicken.

Liver With Onion Sauce.—Dredge thin slices of liver with seasoned flour, and fry brown in butter or pork fat. Put the liver on a warm platter. Fry a cupful of onions in the fat remaining in the pan until a light brown. Add a tablespoonful of vinegar and pour the sauce over the liver.

Orange Custard.—Beat the yolks of five eggs with the whites of two, then add four tablespoons of sugar. Add a quart of boiling milk and the grated rind of an orange. Pour into a buttered pudding dish set into hot water and bake until the custard is set. Make a meringue of the whites of the eggs, powdered sugar and orange juice for flavor. Sprinkle with grated orange rind and brown in the oven.

Peach Kisses.—Peel and cut in halves nice ripe peaches. Remove the stones and put a marshmallow in each half. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and pour over them whipped cream. Serve cold.

TALK TO HOUSE-KEEPERS!

(By Nellie L. Horn.)

"Feel, master, how I shank!"

—Shakespeare, King Henry IV.

"Every part about me quivers."

—Shakespeare, Romeo and Juliet.

Now that many of the fruits are at their prime, the thoughts of the thrifty housewife turn to converting them into jams, jellies and preserves, against the long winter days, though they still seem a great way off.

There is no "royal road" to jelly making, but there are many little tricks whereby the labor may be greatly lessened. Every one who has ever tried it, knows how difficult it is to pour the fruit from the bottle to the jelly bag, and any way of obviating the trouble ought to be hailed with delight. Make a bag of cheesecloth which will fit your preserving kettle, and hang it in the kettle with the ordinary spring clothespins. Now put the washed fruit in this, occasionally lifting the bag during the cooking process to be sure that it does not stick to the bottom. When the fruit is cooked sufficiently, lift the bag out and hang it where the juice can drip all night. Then proceed, next day, as usual.

Have all the jelly glasses clean, with enough paraffine shaved into the bottom of each to cover the jelly. When the hot liquid is poured in, it will melt and rise to the top, cooling and hardening as the jelly cools, and forming an air-tight, dust-proof covering.

If you have never tried the different fruit juices for jelly, you have no idea what delightful combinations can be made. Currants and raspberries are especially pleasing together, and make a jelly of the proper consistency, the currants supplying the acids which the raspberries lack. Pick over and wash the fruit, using about half and half. Place in the jelly bag in the kettle, adding, if necessary, just enough water to keep it from burning. Let it boil until the juices are all freed from the pulp, remove from the fire, and hang up the bag over night. Squeeze the bag if you want clear jelly. Next morning measure the juice, and measure a like quantity of granulated sugar. Put the sugar in the oven to heat, but do not let it brown. Put the juice over the fire in a porcelain-lined or aluminum kettle, and let it boil briskly for fifteen or twenty minutes. Then add the hot sugar, stir until dissolved, and boil five or ten minutes longer. Test by dipping a spoon in it. If it drips off the spoon in one straight stream, it has not boiled sufficiently and will not "jelly," but if it drips off in two drops, side by side, it is done. These directions apply to all kinds of fruit jellies.

It sometimes happens by reason of sickness, unexpected company or some such interruption, that it may not be convenient to make the jelly at once. In this case, after the juice has dripped out, boil it up well, pour into sterilized fruit jars, and seal at once. The juice will keep perfectly in this way until a more convenient time.

Both gooseberries and currants make most delicious preserves. For Gooseberry Preserve have ready, three pounds of gooseberries, "topped and tailed", three pounds of granulated sugar, one pound of seeded raisins, three large oranges and one-quarter of a pound of broken nut meats. Grate the skin of the oranges and squeeze out the juice. Add this to the gooseberries, raisins and sugar, and cook slowly until thick. Just before removing from the fire, add the broken nut meats. Pour into jelly glasses.

For Currant Preserve, use the same recipe excepting that the measure of sugar should be scant.

MONODIET SUBSTITUTE FOR FASTING.

Protracted fasting is most appropriate as a cure in cases of men and women past middle life, who are over weight, not extremely excitable and who have no organic weakness of the heart, but with an evenly balanced temperament and a strong will power.

In most cases a special monodiet is better than a fast, especially where competent supervision is not convenient and when it is necessary to continue the work.

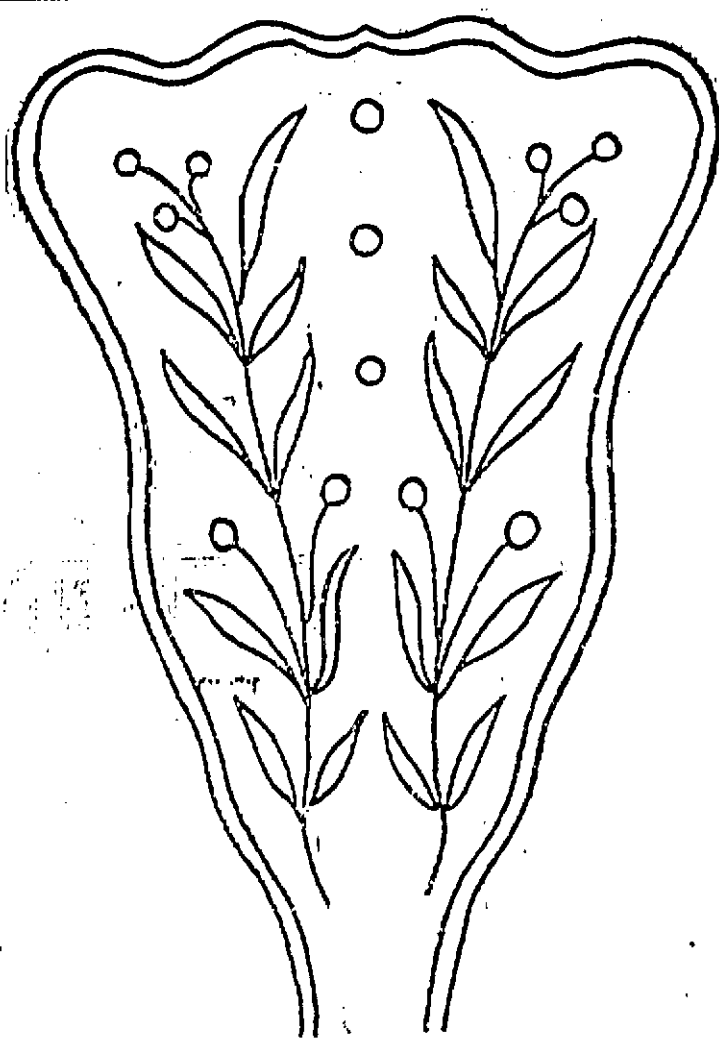

Each case must be considered on its own merits, but the following suggestions will be helpful: The best monodiet is that which furnishes all the elements of nutrition; buttermilk is the best in most cases, especially in stomach and bowel troubles.

Begin with a pint, morning and evening, taking the usual midday meal, but omitting meat, potatoes and whole bread, and eating more whole wheat bread and toast with only a little cheese. The second week increase the morning and evening ration to a quart and the third week drop the noon meal and substitute a quart of buttermilk. Drink very slowly, a spoonful at a time, holding it long in the mouth, and stop when there is a feeling of complete fullness and satisfaction. Good skimmed milk promptly bottled, converted into buttermilk, with a spoonful of olive or peanut oil to the quart, is best.

EVANSVILLE DECIDES TO RETAIN ITS FAIR AT A MASS MEETING
ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING AT CUT OFF CITY LAST EVENING—DISCusses FAIR PROJECT.

TO BUY MORE GROUND
Dig Clearing Dee of the Grounds Arranged for the Coming Friday.—Start Work of Rebuilding At Once.

Evansville, July 19.—Evansville will retain its own fair and no other cities need apply for this honor. Not only will they retain the fair, but they will increase the capital stock to ten thousand dollars, buy more land, enlarge the grand stand and have everything in readiness for the coming fair in September.

It was a most enthusiastic gathering at the city hall last evening when the directors, stockholders and friends of the Evansville Fair Association met to discuss plans for the coming fair. The Evansville military band had volunteered their services and helped to stir up the enthusiasm by playing excellent music on the streets before the meeting was called to order.

The spirit of the whole meeting was that Evansville should retain the county fair and hold it on its own grounds. In fact the subject of moving it to Janesville or any other place was not even discussed seriously. Evansville and the farmers of the immediate surrounding country were most ardent in their desire to make the coming fair bigger and better than ever.

One of the great draw backs of the fair in the past has been that the present entrance to the grounds made it necessary to cross the track to get to the grand stand and this was done away with last night when it was decided to purchase a strip of land twelve rods wide and forty rods long, directly back of the grand stand for an entrance from Longfield Avenue. This will give the grounds two entrances, one from Third street, the other from Longfield Avenue.

Never before in the history of the city has so much interest been shown in the fair. The present stock is all subscribed and the advisability of increasing the capitalization to ten thousand dollars was taken up and later will be decided definitely at a meeting of the board of directors. The purchase of the land referred to, from V. C. Holmes was, however, decided on last evening.

Thirty-five hundred dollars will be expended for repairs at once. This will include rebuilding the grand stand and buildings blown down on the night of July 3. The buildings will be permanent affairs, well built and slightly. The grand stand will probably be enlarged and made to stand the worst storms. Everything will be in readiness for the fair this fall.

So many citizens and farmers offered aid in preparing the grounds for the proposed changes it was decided to hold a "bee" on Friday of this week. The ladies of the city will arrange to furnish coffee and doughnuts to the workers and it is promised to be a most interesting event for the city. It is expected that many who were at the meeting from the surrounding country will be on hand with teams and will make short work of the debris that the storm left.

TAKES UP LAND TO BECOME A RANCHER
J. H. Cullen Has Three Hundred and Twenty Acres Near Carter, Montana.

A letter received from J. H. Cullen, formerly of this city, who moved to Great Falls, Montana, a year ago. Mr. Cullen writes that he has moved from the latter city to a ranch near Carter. He says: "I have taken up 320 acres, all plow land, and it looks good. We like it fine and struck it pretty lucky to be only a mile from Carter. We are thirty miles from Great Falls and my wife and myself drive in frequently. Recently we were late in starting back and we tried to get across what is called the 'Gumbo Plains,' but a storm came up and it got so dark you could not see where to go. As luck would have it, we had a lot of bed clothes we were bringing out with us so we camped on the prairie until morning. At daylight we found we were only a half hour's ride from our ranch and I felt like kicking myself for getting lost so easy. It is a strange country and a large one and we did the best thing. We are having fine weather, cool nights, lots of rain. The crops are good and one seen hunters working in every field. I think this will be the biggest year this country has ever seen. There are thousands of acres of flax raised here and it looks pretty promising when the little purple flowers are out. The country is settling up pretty fast and new ranch houses are going up on every side. Dick McCall is here with me and has filed on 280 acres of the finest land around here. He happened upon it pretty lucky and seems very proud of the fact he is to be a big land owner."

FARM NOTES.
Not Written for Farmers. By H. L. HANN.

A farm paper raises the interesting query: "Can a farmer raise mules and retain his church membership?" It depends on what church he belongs to. It is easy if he is an Episcopalian, but if he is a Hard-shill Baptist it is a little doubtful. We had a Methodist neighbor who fiddled the curriculum of a mule in a moment of playfulness and had both of his eye teeth riveted to his collar button in reward, and when he came to the next day he rose to his feet, repeated the third chapter of Nehemiah backwards, then swore a streak which blistered the lining out of a new Sears & Roebuck steel range. The man who can rear a family of mules from helpless infancy to maturity without display of roughshod profanity is too good for any church.

The farmer who is too poor to buy a pair of warm blankets for his team with hogs at $9 and milk at $1.50 a hundred ought to try doing the chores in a gaiter union suit and see how he likes it. The man who will allow a faithful team to stand for hours in the teeth of a bitter wind while he hucks the grocery store stove and settles the tariff question has a disposition which would make a hyena turn green with envy. We have seen men who had plenty of time in which to gabble about old Joe Cannon and the steel schedule, but were too busy to slip a couple of blankets on a shivering team. If there is a hell, the man who allows his team to freeze to the pavement on a winter's night will be called upon to do a jig at the tail of a teaming fork that will last 150,000 years.

We notice that the boy who is "tied to his mother's apron strings" usually can't tell news up from cowpen hay, but when there are forty applicants for a good job in the community you can count on him being tagged No. 1. The sports lad with the green vest and puttees looks about as winsome as a hard-headed merchant as the girl with a wad of noisy chewing gum who insists upon being kissed good night at the gate. We would about as soon be tied up to a patient old mother's apron strings as to be hooked for life to an appetite for cheap booze and a consuming desire to steal the next pot on a pair of furs.

Two Kinds of Widows.
"There are two kinds of widows—'Oh, I know—grass and sod. That's an old—' Let me finish. I'm talking about regular widows. There are two kinds—lovely ones and lonely ones."

The Skin and Not the Blood.
"Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that that was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely a skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. Reliable Drug Co. are commissioned to sell."

ASTRONOMERS FOUND ANOTHER NEW COMET
Observers Fail to Identify It and Do Not Know Where It Comes From or Where It is Going.

Another wandering wanderer has been discovered in the heavens and astronomed at the big Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., and about at observatories in other parts of the world, are trying to find out which way the stranger is headed and from whence it came. The stranger, a faint, headlight, is known as the "Kloss comet," and was discovered on October 1, 1909, through the efforts of Dr. Kloss, an astronomer at the big observatory, on the summit of Mount Hamilton, near San Jose, Cal. News was flashed at once to Director Edwin H. Frost at the Yerkes observatory and Professor Sherburne W. Burnham, not on the trail of the stranger, early the following morning. "Is the comet going to hit the earth? Where is it going and how did it get where it is?" These are the main questions now. See Comet Every Morning. "We are viewing the comet every morning. It rises about 1:30 a. m., and said Director Frost over the telephone from Williams Bay last night. 'This comet is of no public interest. We don't know yet what its orbit is. Therefore we cannot compute its distance from the earth or where it is headed for. As soon as the orbit is computed we will be able to figure those things out. Nowhere in this world yet has the orbit of this stranger been computed. It doubtless will be soon.' Director Frost added that the Kloss comet is northeast of Chicago and has a tail of a degree and a half, which does not show through the lens of the powerful telescope, but is discernable on the photograph plates.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—"But, Father, with all those advantages, any old shack ought to do!"

The Taming of Red Butte Western

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

"Naturally and properly. But afterward? Four out of five men in this human scrap heap you've inherited will lay for you with a gun to play even for the discharge. What then?"

If Lidgeerwood had been less absorbed in the personal problem he could scarcely have failed to mark the searching scrutiny in the shrewd eyes shaded by Gridley's soft hat.

"YOU HAVE TACKLED A PRETTY HARD PROPOSITION, MR. LIDGEERWOOD."

"I don't know," he said, half hesitantly. "Civilization means something—or it should mean something—even in the Red Desert, Mr. Gridley. I suppose there is some semblance of legal protection in Angels, as elsewhere, isn't there?"

The master mechanic's smile was tolerant.

"Surely. We have a town marshal and a justice of the peace. One is a blacksmith and the other the keeper of the general store."

The good-natured irony in Gridley's reply was not thrown away upon his listener, but Lidgeerwood held tentatively to his own contention.

"The inadequacy of the law or of its machinery hardly excuses a lapse into barbarism," he protested. "The discharged employee in the case you are supposing might hold himself justified in shooting at me, but if I should shoot back and happen to kill him it would be murder. We've got to stand for something, Mr. Gridley, you and I, who know the difference between civilization and savagery."

Gridley's strong teeth came together with a little snap.

"Certainly," he agreed without a shadow of hesitation, adding, "I've never carried a gun and have never had to."

The wreck at Gloria siding proved to be a very mild one as railway wrecks go. A broken flange under a box car had derailed the engine and a dozen cars, and there were no casualties.

Since Gridley was on the ground Lidgeerwood and McCloskey stood aside and let the master mechanic organize the attack. There was a chance for an exhibition of time saving and speed, and Gridley gave it. There was never a false move made or a tentative one, and Lidgeerwood grew warmly enthusiastic.

"Gridley certainly knows his business," he said to McCloskey.

"He can do the job when he feels like it," admitted the trainmaster sourly.

"But he doesn't often feel like it? You can't blame him for that. Picking up wrecks isn't fairly a part of a master mechanic's duty."

"That is what he says, and he does not trouble himself to go when it isn't convenient. I have a notion he would not be here today if you weren't."

It was plainly evident that McCloskey meant more than he said, but once again Lidgeerwood refused to go behind the returns.

"Since we seem to be more ornamental than useful on this job you might give me another lesson in Red Butte geography, Mac," he said, purposely changing the subject. "Where are the gulch mines?"

The trainmaster explained painstakingly, squinting to trace a rude map in the sand at the track side. Here, away twelve miles to the westward, lay Little Butte, where the line swept a great curve to the north and so continued on to Red Butte. Along the northward stretch and in the foothills of the Little Timpanogas were the placers, most of them productive.

Here, where the river made a quick turn, was the butte from which the station of Little Butte took its name. The superintendent might see its wooded summit rising above the lower hills intervening. It was a long, narrow ridge, more like a hogback than a true mountain, and it held a silver mine, Plumber's, which was a moderately heavy shipper. The vein had been followed completely through the ridge, and the spur track in the eastern gulch, which had originally served it, had been abandoned and a new spur built up along the western foot of the butte, with a main line connection at Little Butte.

McCloskey went on, industriously drawing lines in the sand, and Lidgeerwood sat on a cross-tie and combed his lesson. Above the sliding big crane was hovering the detailed cars into line with methodical precision, but now it was Gridley's shop foreman who was giving the orders. The master mechanic had gone aside to hold converse with a man who had driven up in a buckboard, coming from the direction in which Little Butte lay.

"Goodies told me the wreck wagons were here, and I thought you would probably be along," the buckboard driver was saying. "How are things shaping up? I haven't cared to risk the wires since Bigby tackled us."

"The new chum is in the saddle. Look over your shoulder to the left and you'll see him sitting on a cross-tie beside McCloskey," he said.

"What do you know about him?"

"He is a gentleman," said Gridley slowly.

"Oh, what do I care about?"

"And a scholar," the master mechanic went on imperturbably.

The buckboard driver's black eyes snapped. "Can you add the rest of it, and he isn't very bright?"

"No," was the sober reply.

"Well, what are we up against?"

"Your pop valve is set too tight. You blow off too easily, Plumber. So far so good, rather, you're up against nothing worse than the old proposition. Lidgeerwood is going to try to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, beginning with the payroll contingent. If I have sized him up right he'll be kept busy—too busy to remember your name or mine."

"Is," said the man in the buckboard seat. "I believe I'm catching on after so long a time. You mean he hasn't the sand?"

Gridley neither denied nor affirmed. "Hallock is the man to look to," he said. "If we could get him interested—"

"That's up to you, hang it! I've told you a hundred times that I can't touch him."

"I know. He doesn't seem to love you very much. The last time I talked to him he mentioned something about shooting you offhand, but I guess he didn't mean it. You've got to interest him in some way, Plumber."

"Perhaps you can tell me how," was the sarcastic retort.

"I think perhaps I can now. Do you remember anything about the skyrocketing finish of the Mesa Building and Loan association, or is that too much of a back number for a busy man like you?"

"I remember it," said Plumber.

"Hallock was the treasurer," put in Gridley smoothly.

"Yes, but—"

"Wait a minute. A treasurer is supposed to treasure something, isn't he? There are possibly twenty-five or thirty men still left in the Red Butte Western service who have never wholly quit trying to find out why Hallock, the treasurer, failed so signally to treasure anything."

"Yah, that's an old score."

"Well, we'll open the shutters a little wider. One of the first things Lidgeerwood will have to wrestle with will be this loan association business. The kickers will put it up to him. Hallock will be obliged to justify himself to Lidgeerwood, and he can't. In fact, there is only one man living today who could fully justify him."

"And that man is—"

"Pennington Plumber, ex-president of the defunct building and loan. You know where the money went, Plumber."

"Maybe I do. What of that?"

"I can only offer a suggestion, of course. You are a pretty smooth liar, Pennington. It wouldn't be much trouble for you to fix up a story that would satisfy Lidgeerwood. You might even show up a few documents, if it came to the worst."

"Well?"

"That's all. If you get a good firm grip on that club you'll have Hallock coming and going. It's a dead end and what, if he falls in line you'll agree to pacify Lidgeerwood; otherwise the law will have to take its course."

The man in the buckboard was silent for a long minute before he said: "It won't work, Gridley. Hallock's grudge against me is too bitter. You know part of it, and part of it you don't know. He'd hang himself in a minute if he could get my neck in the same noose."

"That is where you are lame, Plumber. You don't know your man. Put it up to Hallock bare-headed. If he comes in, all right; if not, you'll put him where he'll wear stripes. That will fetch him. We'll be going in a few minutes. Do you want to meet Lidgeerwood?"

"Not here—or with you," said the owner of the Wire Silver, and he turned his team and was driving away to when Gridley's shop foreman came up to say that the wrecking train was ready to leave.

CHAPTER V. THE OUTLAW.

FOR the first few weeks after the change in ownership and the arrival of the new superintendent at Angels a sardonic laugh was heard in the land. The Red desert grinned like the famed Cheshire cat when an incoming train from the east brought sundry boxes and trunks said to contain the new boss' wardrobe. Its guffaws were long and uproarious when it began to be noted about that the company carpenters and fitters were installing a bath and other civilizing and softening appliances in the alcove opening out of the superintendent's sleeping room in the headquarters building.

Lidgeerwood slept in the Crow's Nest not so much from choice as for the reason that there seemed to be no alternative save a room in the town tavern, appropriately named the Hotel Celestial.

It is a railroad proverb that the properly inoculated railroad man eats and sleeps with his business. Lidgeerwood exemplified the saying by having a wire cut into the dispatcher's office, with the terminals on a little table at his head and with a tiny telegraph relay instrument mounted on the stand. Through the relay, tapping softly in the darkness, came the news of the line, and often after the strenuous day was ended Lidgeerwood would lie awake listening.

At the far paper covered, iron roofed Celestial, where he took his meals, Lidgeerwood had a table to himself, which he shared at times with McCloskey and at other times with breezy Jack Benson, the young engineer whom Vice President Ford had sent upon Lidgeerwood's request and recommendation to put new life into the track force and to make the preliminary survey for a possible western extension of the road.

On the line and in the roundhouse and repair shops the nickname "Collars and Cuffs" became common, and once, when Braunmagen and the 117 were ordered out on the service car, the Irishman wore the highest collar, old collar he could find in Angels, rounding out the clownery with a pair of huge wickerwaist cuffs, which had once seen service as the coverings of a pair of maraschino bottles.

Lidgeerwood ignored the jests good naturedly, rather thankful for the playful interlude which gave him a breathing space and time to study the field before the real battle should begin.

That a battle would have to be fought was evident enough. As yet the demoralization had been scarcely checked, and sooner or later the necessary radical reforms would have to begin. Gridley, whose attitude toward the new superintendent continued to be that of a disinterested adviser, assured Lidgeerwood that he was being ground by not opening the campaign of severity at once.

The fact that the master mechanic was continually urging the "warfare" made Lidgeerwood delay it. Just why Gridley's counsel should have produced such a contrary effect Lidgeerwood could not have explained. The advice was sound, and the man who gave it was friendly and apparently ingenious. But prejudices, like prepossessions, are sometimes as strong as they are inexplicable, and while Lidgeerwood freely accused himself of injustice toward the master mechanic, a certain feeling of distrust and repulsion, dating back to his first impressions of the man, died hard.

Oddly enough, on the other hand, there was a prepossession, quite as unreasoning, for Hallock. There was absolutely nothing in the chief clerk to inspire liking or even common business confidence. On the contrary, while Hallock attended to his duties and carried out his superior's instructions with the exactness of an automaton, his attitude was distinctly antagonistic. As the chief subaltern on Lidgeerwood's small staff he was efficient and well liked. As a man Lidgeerwood felt he might easily be regarded as an enemy whose designs could never be fathomed or predicted, but under the crabbed and gloomy crust of the man the superintendent fancied he could discover a certain savage loyalty. But under the loyalty there was a deeper depth—of misery or tragedy, or both.

Questioned by Lidgeerwood, McCloskey declared that Hallock was married; that after the first few months in Angels his wife, a strikingly beautiful young woman, had disappeared and that since her departure Hallock had lived alone in two rooms over the freight station, rooms which no one, save himself, ever entered.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Jamesville readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, 1020 W. Bluff St., Jamesville, Wis., says: "It is with pleasure that I recommend Doan's kidney complaint, but since using kidney complaint, I have enjoyed much better health. I hope that my statement will lead other kidney sufferers to try Doan's Kidney Pills." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

Re-endorsement.

When Mrs. O'Brien was interviewed on September 25, 1910, she added to the above: "I am still glad to say a word in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. Occasionally during the past two years when I have needed a kidney medicine, I have taken this remedy and the results have always been satisfactory."

Little Bed-Time Tales

By EDITH HAVENS

The Feast

It was bedtime and mother was reading a story to Edith and Harold. And it was such an interesting story!

She was reading of the good King Kind Heart, who lived many years ago in a land where there were very many poor people.

The good King loved his people, and he was very unhappy because they were poor. He wanted to do something for them, and for days he would sit in silence trying to think out some plan whereby he could make them all very happy.

One day he called one of his advisors to his side and whispered in his ear. A short while after the advisor left the palace with a wonderful smile upon his face.

Out into the Highways and Byways he went with many of the King's servants, seeking out all the poor people, and what he told them brought joy to their hearts.

What do you think the King's messengers told them? He told each and every one that on the morrow the King was to prepare a feast for them all and that they must be at the palace early.

Never had such happiness been known before.

And what a commotion there was at the palace.

The cooks and bakers were preparing was the sky more wonderfully blue, get.

all kinds of tempting dishes; the herdsman was singing out his choicest stock, the maids were arranging the long tables with snow-white table covers and dishes of pure gold, while the King, happier than he had ever been before, was here, there and everywhere giving orders.

That night the King slept a peaceful sleep.

The next day was beautiful. Never had the sky more wonderfully blue, get.

Forty Years Ago

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, July 19, 1871.

Four Miles and Repeat.

An interesting running race has been arranged to come off on the Janesville track on the 21st of September, between Harry, the property of Mr. Peter Parkinson, of Fayette, and the well known horse Canada. The race is to be four miles and repeat and the stakes one thousand dollars a side. This will undoubtedly be the finest race ever given upon our track, and sportsmen are looking forward to the event with pleasurable anticipations.

Paper Mill.

Mr. O. L. De Forest, of this city, has received a letter from Mr. P. S. Allan, of Kankakee, Ill., asking information regarding the prospects for establishing a paper mill in Janesville, and the disposition of the people to assist in the enterprise. We refer the matter to our citizens, recommending them to take some action towards securing this manufacturing establishment.

Runaway.

A runaway occurred on the West side on Monday night, by which two of our young men, Jerome and Bump, were thrown from the buggy and slightly injured. The horse took fright at the sudden rising of a white calf by the roadside and started before its driver could gather the reins.

Brief Items.

The postmaster, at Layden in this county receives a salary of thirteen dollars a year.

A portion of the young legal talent of the city were developing their oratorical ability before Judge Pritchard this afternoon.

EXALTED.

Hosman—I didn't know that your father was a Mason. Is he high up?

Terry Doolan—Sure. He's worked on the steeple of the new church you der.

JUST SUITED HIM.

Mrs. Stayholme—If you stay out another night until 12 o'clock, I'm going to leave you.

Mr. Stayholme—I wish you'd put that on paper.

Money as an Edible.

Benham—"A Harvard professor says that the average man eats one-fourth of his salary." Mrs. Benham—"All the more reason why bank bills should be new and clean."
